

The Free State Foundation's Lunch Seminar

"A New FCC or the Same Old, Same Old?"

WHERE: National Press Club, Washington, DC

WHEN: Thursday, October 24, 2013, 12:00 p.m. - 2:15 p.m.

The Free State Foundation will hold a lunch seminar titled, "A New FCC or the Same Old, Same Old?" on Thursday, October 24, 2013, at the National Press Club.

With Tom Wheeler and Michael O'Rielly likely to arrive shortly as the new FCC Chairman and Commissioner, the FCC will be back to its full five-member complement. With ongoing dramatic changes in the communications and Internet marketplace occurring almost daily, this program will explore important questions such as: Should we expect to see long-overdue institutional reforms at the FCC? What specifically should be done, if anything, to reorient the agency consistent with the dramatic marketplace and technological changes? What reforms can be implemented without congressional action? If congressional action is needed, are there measures short of a comprehensive overhaul of the Communications Act that should be enacted more quickly?

THE SPEAKERS:

*Congressman Bob Latta, Vice Chair, House Energy and Commerce Committee's Subcommittee on Communications and Technology
Opening Remarks*

James Assey, Executive Vice President, National Cable & Telecommunications Association

William Kovacic, former Chairman, Federal Trade Commission and Professor of Law, George Washington University Law School

Jim Speta, Professor of Law, Northwestern University School of Law

Robert Quinn, Senior Vice President - Federal Regulatory and Chief Privacy Officer, AT&T Services
