

The Free State Foundation

A Free Market Think Tank For Maryland...Because Ideas Matter

Delivering Media Content in a New Technological Environment: An Exploration of Policy Implications

Featuring: Steven S. Wildman

James H. Quello Chair of Telecommunication Studies and Co-Director of the Quello Center for Telecommunication Management and Law at Michigan State University with comments by:

Robert M. McDowell
Commissioner, Federal Communications Commission

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 2008
11:45 NOON - 1:45 PM

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION
900 7th STREET, NW, SUITE 600, WASHINGTON, DC

This seminar is part of the Free State Foundation's "New Directions in Communications Policy" project, which includes a series of programs featuring members of FSF's prestigious Board of Academic Advisors who are contributing to a book of essays titled "New Directions in Communications Policy." The book, a major conference early next year, and this fall's program series will address a range of today's most significant communications policy topics and will propose forward-looking reform recommendations. With a new President and new Congress taking office in January, FSF's "New Directions" project will develop fresh ideas for adapting communications policy to the rapidly changing communications marketplace. Each seminar session will be structured to offer an opportunity for audience members to share their views.

A complimentary lunch will be provided

The National Academy of Public Administration is located at the corner of 7th and I (Eye) Streets, NW, one block north of the Gallery Place-Chinatown Metro Station

RSVP to Susan Reichbart at sreichbart@freestatefoundation.org